Health Worries.

A man went to see his doctor. He said, 'I'm very worried: if you look closely, you'll see I've got a small, green shoot coming out of the front of my head.'

The doctor peered at it closely. He'd never seen anything like it. He prescribed some ointment and sent him away.

A week later, the man was back again. The ointment hadn't worked. Now the shoot had grown into a very small tree. The doctor was even more baffled. He wrote a prescription for some tablets and sent him away again, hoping that would be the end of it.

But, a week later, the man was back again. His whole head was covered with a miniature field, trees and a lake.

'Ah!' said the doctor. 'Now I can see what the problem is. You've got a beauty spot!'
